SEVENTH ANNUAL GENERAL MEETING

Thursday, May 13, 2004, 8:30 – 15:30
Room W136, Schulich School of Business, York University
4700 Keele Street, Toronto, Ontario

In light of the flurry of media concerning corruption in Canada, the theme, “Corruption – Is Canada in Trouble?”, is a timely one. The exposure of recent scandals has become a source of anger, discouragement and disappointment. If we allow these emotions to nourish pessimism and cynicism, we may, as a society, compound the problems that these scandals have exposed and miss a unique opportunity to strengthen our political and business institutions and our public values. Identifying the opportunities requires that we keep events in perspective. This Symposium provides an opportunity for you to hear from colleagues in government, private and civil society sectors, and to discuss with them potential solutions to corruption in Canada.
